

When I heard those three little words: you. have. cancer. I was scared, numb, overwhelmed and I felt lonely. I became a robot; doing what I needed to do each day just to get through. During treatment, I felt a fire burning in my soul. A calling. An awakening. I wanted more. More spirituality, more adventure, more love, more of what this life has to offer. I became a yes girl and stopped letting fear hold me back. Each of us must discover our own path; to find our new normal. While there are many similarities to our stories, we each are so unique. With this in mind, we created an experience for women to be vulnerable and open. We present the atmosphere, but it is because of their bravery, they create for themselves a life changing experience.

We are asking for help creating this experience for 20 lucky gynecologic cancer survivors. Attendees are invited to spend a long weekend in the majestic, awe-inspiring Outer Banks of North Carolina. Upon arrival, they will join with fellow Divas who have traveled and survived similar journeys. Together letting go of their worries and enjoying a few days of sister bonding. This retreat is provided at no cost to gynecologic cancer survivors.

We will be documenting this retreat as a marketing tool. The outcome of the 2021 retreat video will be different than those in the past. However, for a sneak peek into a previous retreat, we invite you to view our 2019 retreat video:
