

know the SYMPTOMS of OVARIAN CANCER

Additional symptoms may include indigestion, pain with intercourse, and menstrual irregularities, although these symptoms are found equally in women without the disease. If you are experiencing the above symptoms almost daily for more than a few weeks, you should see a gynecologist and have a physical exam and transvaginal ultrasound. If any abnormality is identified, you should then be referred to a GYN Oncologist and have a CA125 blood test.
